

Evidence-based Practices!

Meeting the Learning and Behavioral Needs of Students with Autism Spectrum Disorder

Victoria Inn
3550 Victoria Avenue
Grand Salon A
Brandon, Manitoba

Are you looking to provide better individual programming for your students with ASD, and better classroom programs to ensure consistency across grade levels? If so, this fast-paced workshop will provide you with “learn it today / use it tomorrow” evidence-based practices (EBP), utilizing various forms of technology to meet the learning and behavioral needs of students with ASD, AND increase independent functioning! A unique EBP planning tool, designed to assist in identifying individual student needs, will be shared. This guide will help participants determine appropriate EBP, per individual student, that will serve as positive behavioral interventions and supports (PBIS) to prevent the occurrence of challenging behaviors and increase independent functioning. Participants will also learn how to use an EBP classroom / program observation tool featuring pivotal EBP for effective school-based programs. Participants will leave with numerous practical, evidence-based strategies that can be used with your students immediately, as well as web-based resources to maximize understanding and programming for students with ASD.

Susan K. Lewis Stokes, M.A., CCC-SLP has specialized in the area of autism spectrum disorder as both a speech/language pathologist and autism consultant for over 30 years. She presents at many state, national, and international workshops/conferences, and frequently provides trainings and student support to various groups and school districts across the United States, Canada, and Mexico. Susan shares practical, evidence-based resources and strategies related to all aspects of ASD, with a specific focus on the use of various modes of technology that function as positive behavioral Intervention and supports to increase independent functioning in all skill areas.
